Officials say starved dog improving

Warrants issued for husband, wife on cruelty charges

Edward Golden

Donna Golden

By Becky Barnes, Editor

All indications are that the couple wanted on the cruelty to animal charges for allegedly starving a border collie mix dog have skipped town.

Sgt. Wilbur Gross of the Cynthiana Police Department said that warrants were signed last week after the dog was rescued from an abandoned residence at 203 W. Penn St.

Donna and Edward Golden are wanted on charges of cruelty to animals, abandonment of animals and criminal mischief.

Gross said the Goldens were no-shows in Harrison District Court on Monday where they were to appear on unrelated charges.

After leaving the Penn Street property nearly two weeks ago, the couple was staying with friends in the area. However, at one point they left Harrison County and moved in with friends in Morehead, Ky., according to Gross.

Gross said authorities have been contacted and e-warrants are on record.

Gross said his investigation has also led to information that Edward Golden rescued the collie mix dog about five years ago in Lexington while he was

Dora Clair

50 years in prison for convicted killer

By Becky Barnes, Editor

It's over.

And that, Dora Clair says, gives her some satisfaction.

However, she remains frustrated after her daughter's murderer was sentenced last week in Pendleton County Circuit Court.

"He refused to give a statement," Clair said. "I wanted to know why he did what he did."

Clair said she was initially promised a written statement from Bass Webb as part of the plea agreement in the murder of her daughter, Bryia Runiewicz.

However, when Webb appeared before Judge Jay Delaney last Wednesday to change his plea, again, Webb heard the sentence of 50 years in prison, then was lead from the courtroom.

As jail officials escorted Webb away, he turned and offered Clair and her family a taunting smirk.

"I'd like to smack that smirk right off his face," Clair said. "But I can't do that. He has all the rights. I have none."

Pill take back is Saturday

By Ben Hyatt, News writer

The Harrison County Sheriff's Department will be hosting a pill take-back day Saturday, Sept. 29, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at their office at the corner of Pike and Poplar streets. Since the program's beginning, the Harrison County Sheriff's Department has played a part in the removal of several hundred pounds of unwanted medication from Harrison County that may have been discarded improperly or used illegally.

In an effort to keep unwanted medication from finding its way into unlawful hands or in drinking water, all Harrison County citizens are encouraged to bring unwanted medication to the sheriff's office to be properly discarded.

According to Harrison County deputies, medication remains the number one factor in home invasions where intruders search for unused medication to fuel drug habits.

Brown bankruptcy

Judge denies request to recover estate money

By Becky Barnes, Editor

A bankruptcy judge has said no to a motion for the turnover of $417,414.43 to the debtor's estate.

On Thursday, Sept. 20, Judge Joseph M. Scott Jr. denied the motion filed by the trustee, James Westenhoefer, for the recovery of funds being held by Kay Brown's brother, R.B. Kirk.

The judge noted that the proper procedure for recovery of property from a third party is through an adversary case.

The judge also ruled that an attorney for the trustee, Westenhoefer, is a valid request. John Sims of Atkinson Simms & Kermode was appointed to represent the trustee in the estate of Kay Brown in the appeal of an Aug. 24 order granting the settlement agreement and authorizing the transfer of assets.

According to the settlement agreement, which Judge Scott signed, the Brown parties (Jim Brown, his brother Paul as guardian, and Richard Wehrle as conservator) assert that all of the properties listed in Kay Brown's schedule were fraudulently transferred by Mrs. Brown from Mr. Brown to herself following Mr. Brown's stroke.

The Brown parties acknowledge that the former IGA property in Paintsville does belong to Kay Brown.

It was the judge's conclusion in the settlement agreement that Jim Brown's properties should be returned to him.

No date has been set to hear Kay Brown's appeal.

Gym renovation interferes with haunted maze

By Becky Barnes, Editor

The Rev. Ross Park Committee was told they need to find a new place to hold their haunted maze again this year.

Committee member Brian Williams told members of the Cynthiana City Commission that the haunted maze is the organization's largest fund raiser for the year. Proceeds help support the annual bike race and Easter egg hunt.

Williams asked if the City Hall gym would be ready and available to hold the annual haunted maze.

Commissioner Billy Grayson said scheduling the completion of the gym in time for winter basketball is the city's priority and that there are several things planned to get the floor done quickly.

However, he said the floor will not be ready to meet Williams' request.

"There'll be no plumbing and likely no floors in the restrooms," Grayson said.

Committee member Lois Gross asked if this request was going to have to be made every year or if they could just get approved then automatically have it every year.

Grayson said the new Parks and Rec board will likely be the overseers of the refurbished gym. However, Grayson noted that there has been money donated for the gym's renovations and that the city needs to make sure that the gym is not reverted back to its pre-renovation condition.

"We have an obligation to those people to maintain this," Grayson said.

"Keep in mind this is recreation too," Williams said of the maze.

In other business, the commission:

•Recognized Jeff Sneed, Bullard vice president, for the company's 40th anniversary of being in Cynthiana. A proclamation was read to salute Bullard and the products made there.

•Approved 5-year contract with Kentucky Utilities for a street light at the Rev. Ross Park basketball court. The cost will be $30.89 monthly.

•Approved a $9,000 expenditure for the city's half of costs for having the Flat Run Veterans' Park lot paved.

•Made the following employment changes -- hired Stacey Stanley as a temporary, certified telecommunicator; hired Mariah Kuster Collins as a part time telecommunicator; hired two police officer recruits, Billy Sean Rains and John C. Bright; moved Eugene Fuller from temporary water treatment operator to full time; and Robert Eads from part time to full time.

•Approved a $7,990 purchase of a salt spreader.

•Heard Commissioner Gary Brunker report that telecommunications is heading toward a "plain talk" way of reporting from the scene. Emergency responders will be phasing out the 10-codes.

working with a heating and air conditioning firm.

"He got it back to good health and then this is what happened," Gross said of the alleged neglect. "This is the second time that dog has gone through this."

Animal Control Officer Paul Colson said Monday the dog has been showing some improvements.

"We put out food morning, noon and night, and each time it's all gone," Colson said.

The dog weighed 33 pounds when it was rescued from the house. During a follow-up vet assessment Tuesday, the dog weighed in at 39.5 pounds.

Officer Alan Fryman, Animal Control, said the dog should gain another 30 to 50 pounds to be at proper weight.

Fryman said the dog is starting to grow some of its hair back as well. It has tested negative for mange and heart worm.

He said there has been an out-pouring of concern for the animal since its rescue last week.

He said a dog bed, toys and food have been dropped off at the shelter for him.

As far as his disposition, Fryman said he let the dog ride in the front seat with him to the veterinarian on Tuesday.

"It's amazing the difference in last week and this week," Colson said.

"What he needs now is time, love and food," Fryman said.

Traces of medication are also constantly found in drinking water sources due to improper discarding of medication.

According to Sgt. Rick Saint-Blancard, spokesperson for the Kentucky State Police, all solid dosage pharmaceutical products and liquids in consumer containers may be accepted. Liquid products, such as cough syrup, should remain sealed in their original container.

Intra-venous solutions, injectibles and syringes will not be accepted due to potential hazard posed by blood-borne pathogens.

"We are also providing a service for those shut-ins who are unable to drop their medication off at the office," said Deputy Robert Peak. "Anyone who is unable to drive to the sheriff's office can call us to come get the medication."

The sheriff's office also accepts medication during normal working hours for those needing to clean-out medicine cabinets.

The Harrison County Sheriff's Office is located at 113 W. Pike Street. The office number is 234-7135.

Permanent Birth Control in 15 Minutes

- No Incisions
- Covered by most insurances

Women arrive at a time in their life when they are finished having children but still require birth control to prevent pregnancy. Many patients depend on temporary birth control methods for years, but wish to move to something more permanent without the need for incisions. Until recently, permanent birth control meant having to undergo surgery for a tubal ligation or a vasectomy for men. At the Women's Health Clinic, Dr. Derek Clarke is now offering Essure - a permanent form of birth control. This simple procedure takes only a few minutes, it is 99.8% effective and is covered by most insurances. Since there are no incisions involved you can resume normal activities in one or two days. With all the responsibilities that women juggle daily, worrying about birth control should not be one of them. Call our office today to see if Essure is right for you.

Well paid should never complain about wages

Ben Hyatt
News Writer

As a way of sparking some potential interesting letters to the editor, I would like to offer up the conversation regarding the current situation in the NFL.

Referees!!!

Love them or hate them, they are just as much part of any game played as the athletes are.

Take referees out of a game and we would be stuck watching a variation of the ultimate fighter in most cases... which could prove to be interesting in some cases.

However, I do not feel that refs should go to the level that has been visited by many athletes and go on strike in order to be paid more for their services.

It is mind-blowing to think that even the zebra-stripped-wearing men feel that they are able to simply throw their hands in the air and refuse to do their job unless they receive more pay.

The reasoning behind player strikes in most sports is easier to understand, however, I do not support them all.

Sure players can injure themselves the very first year they play, leading to them being disabled.

That is a true concern and for that they are generally paid large sums of money to put themselves in those situations each week.

Refs on the other hand, for the most part, are rarely ever in situations where their health is in jeopardy... unless blowing a whistle leads to lung cancer and we don't know it yet.

I was interested in knowing just how much NFL refs make a year and of course the numbers are larger than I will ever see in my lifetime.

According to several on-line sources, NFL refs can make from $42,000 to as much as $100,000 per season.

Now I don't know about anyone else, but I would love to make that kind of money and have the chance to meet some of the great talents in the NFL.

It is sad to see the NFL constantly having to face greedy issues concerning money year in and year out.

But is this not how our world works now?

Don't all the well-paid constantly demand more in order to buy nicer things than they already have?

I can't help but think what people in third world countries think about the United States when they hear that men in our country are mad at making that kind of money.

The thought is so sad that I often find myself laughing at the situation.

I feel that refs in the NFL should suck it up and get back to what they do best; making sure NFL games are officiated to the best of their potential.

I am very interested in knowing what others have to say about this situation.

Please send any letters about the NFL ref lockout to the Cynthiana Democrat, p.o. box 160, or directly to my email bhyatt@cynthianademocrat.com.

Physicians could face issues with House Bill 1

By: Dr. Don R. Stephens, M.D.

Senator R.J. Palmer recently defended passage of House Bill 1-commonly referred to as the "Pill Mill Bill" - and said the law contained "common sense" requirements for physicians who prescribe certain controlled substances. Despite his attempts at defending the bill, however, every physician, medical provider, medical facility and patient knows the law's mandates have created unnecessary burdens and cost that clearly need to be corrected.

House Bill 1 was designed to shut down so-called "pill mills" and has gone a long way toward doing that, something the medical community has long supported. The law was also designed to have physicians and others use the state's KASPER system, which lists a patient's controlled substance prescription history. It's use in many instances can certainly be helpful to physicians, although Senator Palmer's statement that KASPER reports can be run in seconds was a stretch.

House Bill 1 also mandates several treatments that must be performed prior to prescribing certain controlled substances, including conducting a physical exam and writing out a "treatment plan" for each new prescription. These requirements present may issues for practicing physicians and are having a dramatic impact on patient care, costs and access to care.

The worst part of these new requirements is that they contain no meaningful exceptions, which makes compliance in every situation nearly impossible. Take the example of a hospital patient to whom a drug has been prescribed to address post-operative pain. The patient has an allergic reaction to the medication, which induces vomiting or other reactions. The surgeon who performed the surgery is unavailable at the moment, but an attending physician- perhaps a hospitalist-is on the scene and could prescribe a different medication immediately. But according to the requirements of House Bill 1, the hospitalist would have to complete all of the mandated and unnecessary treatments first, which would take valuable time. Similar examples abound, which is why the legislature should not mandate how patients are to be treated under any circumstance.

While Senator Palmer seems to imply these treatment mandates are trivial, they put unneeded waste into a medical system that is already experiencing access issues. And having to pay for unnecessary exams and other requirements will tax patients' pocketbooks, many of whom now pay more out-of-pocket because of increased deductibles.

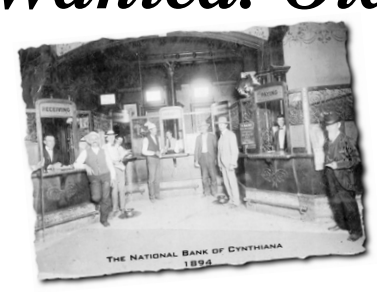

In addition, the delays in seeing a physician or other professional will only get worse. Physicians who might otherwise be interested in moving to Kentucky will be repelled by nonsensical mandates that force physicians to choose whether to provide the right care or comply with the law. The fact that these requirements have criminal penalties associated with them make it that much worse trying to recruit new physicians to our state.

All of the problems stem from the law passed by the legislature, not the regulations published by the board of medical licensure. In fact, the regulations-while far from perfect themselves-do contain meaningful exceptions to requirements.

Kentucky is losing primary care physicians every year to other states. A major reason is the lack of tort reform to protect our physicians from frivolous law suits. Practically all states have this protection. When we add House Bill 1 to existing problems in our state, attracting new primary care physicians is difficult to accomplish. These two major problems could be solved by legislative action.

The state Attorney General recently said the law should be changed because of problems encountered by physicians and patients. I hope Senator Palmer agrees and makes simple changes that avoid patient pain and suffering. Otherwise, Kentucky will once again be the state that others point to as the example of what Not to do.

County chooses compensating tax rate

By Ben Hyatt, News writer

After a second reading of an ordinance involving county tax rates, the Harrison County Fiscal Court voted to take the 10.2 cent compensating rate.

Surprisingly, many audience seats remained vacant during the final reading of this year's proposed tax rates. However, the few occupied seats were filled with those voters opposing any raise in taxes for next year.

Members of the TEA Party were present to express their opposition to the county taking any kind of rate that would ultimately take more money from tax payers.

"Was there any kind of surplus after this fiscal year?" asked TEA Party member John Chamberlin. "If so, then why would the county need to take any kind of rate that would take more money out of my pocket."

County Judge-Executive Alex Barnett explained the county did have a minimal surplus of money after the fiscal year. However, he reminded the court and listeners that the county did not take any compensating rate last year.

Last year's 9.9 rate was projected to land the county $784,971. However, due to non-payers and exemptions, the county only banked $717,00 of the projected revenue.

"What this rate is designed to do is to keep our income the same," said Barnett. "I can see how to many it looks like an increase, but it will generate the same amount of money as last year."

Barnett further explained that products used by the county including oil, rock, salt and fuel continue to increase in cost each year.

"The state looks at the increased cost of products and they come up with this number," said Barnett.

Barnett also mentioned the continued number of houses being added to the home exemption list.

"We lose homes every year due to home exemptions and property value continues to decrease," said Barnett.

The compensating rate for 2013 is projected to bring in $807,431 in county tax money.

A call for vote was made and seconded. Magistrates Missy Lutz and Bradley Copes voted "no" with the others all voting for the compensating rate. Motion passed.

Also discussed was the need to list six county vehicles and one mobile trailer as county surplus.

A motion was made and passed to hold a county surplus auction sometime in October where the vehicles and mobile home could be auctioned off.

A motion was also passed to fund a flagman during the construction of Nebo Road.

"The railroad said we must have a flagman present during construction because it is within 25 feet of the railway," said Barnett. "The total cost for five days will be $5,432."

Barnett said the money spent on the flagman will also be reimbursed from a state grant being used for the road construction.

Finally, the court announced that the Oct. 23, fiscal court meeting will be held in Berry at 7 p.m.

Webb

Clair said she does take consolation in the fact that her daughter's killer will not be getting out of prison any time soon.

"At least I can tell the kids he's not getting out," Clair said of Bryia's surviving two daughters.

"Because of the children I didn't want to go through with the trial," Clair said of her support of the plea agreement.

Still, she said, her daughter is dead and her granddaughters have no mother.

"They've lost a lifetime of spending time with their mom," she said. "He can talk with his mother and see his mother. These girls can't."

Clair admits that she remains angered by the entire ordeal.

"I wish someone would tell me how not to be," she said. "That smirk on his face just brought it all back."

Clair said she is glad that Webb got the maximum allowable sentence with a plea agreement.

"I am satisfied that he's not getting out in my lifetime, but less satisfied because there is a possibility that he could get out in my grandchildren's lifetime," Clair said.

Last Wednesday's court hearing was initially set for a judge's ruling on Webb's request to withdraw his Aug. 15 motion to withdraw a guilty plea, which had been made on July 18.

However, when the courtroom was filled, Webb was escorted to the judge where he told Judge Delaney that he wanted to withdraw his request to withdraw his guilty plea.

The judge upheld the Commonwealth's recommendation of a 50-year prison sentence to run consecutively with a 15-year sentence on a Fayette County conviction on charges of third degree assault and persistent felony offender. Those charges stem from an altercation at the Fayette County Detention Center where Webb has been held following his arrest on the Bourbon County charges.

Since his conviction in Fayette and Bourbon counties, he has been incarcerated at the Eastern Kentucky Correction Center in West Liberty, Ky.

He was also convicted in Bourbon County on two counts of attempted murder. He is serving a 50-year concurrent sentence on those charges.

He will still stand trial in April for the murder of Sabrina Vaughn.

With Gratitude

How fortunate we are to live here in the Licking Valley! Over and over in our small communities, Harrison, Bourbon, Nicholas and Pendleton, we see played out one of the South's most attractive characteristics: that of reaching out to help our neighbors in good times and bad.

We at Maysville Community and Technical College Licking Valley Campus wish to thank all those listed here and all those who shared with us in the dream of a new Health Sciences Wing. This is yet another demonstration of how this is truly the community's college.

Cynthiana's Ghost Walk is in its sixth year of storytelling

This year marks the sixth year that people from all over the region will come to downtown Cynthiana to walk the streets into the history of our city. The Cynthiana Ghost Walk, started six years ago by local storytellers, is closing in on over 6,000 participants and has attracted visitors from states as far away as Arkansas and New Orleans.

One of the founders of the Ghost Walk, Roger Slade, has been as surprised as anyone else at the success. "It started out as a hobby of mine. I remember as a kid that me and my friends were always trying to scare each other with spooky stories. I knew the stories well and one day my partner came in and told me that he had put an ad in the paper for a Ghost Walk and we were going to be starting it on Friday." Slade went on to describe that first walk, "When we came out of the theater, there were over 50 people waiting for that first one. It's been non-stop every year and just keeps getting bigger and bigger."

The success of the Ghost Walk is in the storytelling excellence of the staff. They incorporate a lot of history of Cynthiana, a walk to (and into) some of the neatest buildings the town has to offer, and the good stories. They tell of the death of Harry Bailey, go into the old jail and tell of David Sheely and his ghost, stop by the old log cabin, talk about the ghost boy in the 1812 building, and describe the strange happenings in the Seldon Renaker Inn. Then it is back to the Rohs Opera House which has been rated by most as the most haunted theater in Kentucky and one of the most haunted buildings in the state. There participants sit through a presentation of audio, picture, and video evidence.

"We have people take our walk that don't believe in ghosts and some that do." Slade said. "I don't know if we've ever changed anyone's mind but everyone has a lot of fun. People who are into history enjoy that part of it and people who are into ghosts enjoy that part."

If you are interested, the Cynthiana Ghost Walk runs Saturday's in September at 9 p.m. In October they will run Friday and Saturday's starting at 7, 8, and 9 p.m. Prices are $9 for adults and $5 for children. It is not recommended for small children.

"Even if you've taken it before," Slade added, "it changes a little each year. The stories outside don't really change but we're always getting new evidence for the inside part." They hope to reach 6,000 participants this year.

Beware of Cyanide (Prussic Acid) poisoning in ruminants

With the start of fall comes the risk of cyanide poisoing in ruminants. Cyanide, prussic acid, hydrogen cyanide or hydrocyanic acid poisoning are all terms describing the same condition. A number of common plants, including sudangrass, johnsongrass, sorghums and sorghum-sudangrass hybrids contain cyanogenic glycosides in the outer cells of the plant. Further inside the leaf tissue are the enzymes needed to convert these compounds to the cyanide poison.

When the plant undergoes a stressful event such as cutting, wilting, freezing, drought, crushing, trampling, chewing or chopping, the plant cells rupture which allows the cyanogenic compounds and the enzymes to combine and produce hydrogen cyanide gas. Ruminants also have microflora in the rumen capable of converting the cyanogenic compounds in the plant into cyanide.

The toxic gas goes to the bloodstream and blocks a necessary step in the release of oxygen from red blood cells. The animal essentially dies from lack of oxygen. Clinical signs of cyanide poisoning can occur within minutes to hours after consuming the toxic forage. Usually the affected animals are found dead but, if observed early, may show rapid, difficult breathing, frothing at the mouth, muscle tremors, staggering and then collapse. The mucous membranes (such as the gums) are bright pink and the blood can be a bright cherry red color.

It is important to recognize and avoid situations in which these forages pose a danger to livestock.

Cattle and other ruminants should only graze sorghum, sorghum hybrids, or johnsongrass when the plants have reached at least 18-24 inches in height. Do not graze plants with young tillers. Do not graze these plants during drought periods when growth is severely reduced or the plant is wilted or twisted and wait at least one week after rainfall to resume grazing. Do not graze at night when frost is likely. Frost allows conversion to hydrogen cyanide within the plant. Do not graze for two weeks after a non-killing (>28 degrees) frost. It is best not to allow ruminants to graze after a light frost as this is an extremely dangerous time and it may be several weeks before the cyanide potential subsides. Do not graze after a killing frost until plant material is completely dry and brown.

If a high cyanide is suspected in forages, do not graze or feed as green chop. If cut for hay, allow at least 72 hours or longer before baling so that the cyanide will dissipate. Allow thorough drying because toxicity can be retained in cool or moist weather. Delay feeding silage six to eight weeks following ensiling.

Meyers to host Harrison County Field Day Oct. 8

By Gary Carter, County extension agent for agriculture

The farm field day in Harrison County will be held at the farm of Mike and Shelley Meyer on Monday, Oct. 8 at 5 p.m. The farm is located on Highway 32 or Connersville Pike, four and one-half miles from Highway 27.

The Meyer's have a beef production farm with corn, hay and tobacco production as well. The farm is going through some major changes at the present time and producers will get to see many of the improvements which will aid in future operations.

Programs will include water development, feeding area development, and seed demonstrations. One additional program will be an optional method of dealing with deceased animals on the farm. As usual, following the farm tour we will have a steak dinner prepared by the Harrison County Beef Cattle Association.

Since we will be limited on daylight we will start the field day at 5 p.m. sharp with a meal concluding the event. We ask that you call the Harrison County Extension Office at 234-5510 by Friday, Oct. 5 so we can prepare accordingly.

I would also like to invite everyone to come and observe this farm. If you would like to come and have little or no farm interest, feel free to observe many of the items affecting farms in the central Kentucky area. Don't forget to call if you plan to attend.

Cool nights and short days initiate bloom

Jeneen Wiche
Columnist
www.SwallowRailFarm.com

There are many things that come together that allow plants to thrive.

When it comes to plants native to our area, we are not required to go to great extremes to provide the ideal environment.

An ideal environment, however, means a great many different things depending on what kind of plant you are.

This time of the year we can do a couple of things for some favorite flowering plants.

The goal is to mimic a plant's native habitat as closely as possible; this is difficult in our homes, but success is likely if you move some things outdoors through the remainder of Autumn.

For many tropical flowering plants we can initiate bud set through managing day length and nighttime temperatures.

Instead of sticking your Christmas cactus in the closet for 12 hours a day try just leaving it in a dark corner of the yard for a few weeks.

The flowering of many plants (including some native species) is initiated by how many hours of light and dark the plant receives in a 24-hour period. Likely the most famous tropical that is photoperiodic is the poinsettia. How many people have tried to initiate the bracts to turn red by sticking their poinsettia in the closet for 12 hours each day?

I usually just buy new ones each December.

There are some other photoperiodic bloomers, however, that I hold onto year after year; and I have discovered a reliable way to get them to bloom that is quite simple.

I leave many of the plants outside through the month of September (or later, depending on the weather) so that they can naturally experience shorter days, and longer, cooler nights.

The list of plants that spend some time chilling outdoors include Clivia, holiday cacti and several different species of orchids.

I have had amazing success with this very simple plan.

Follow the forecasted weather and take note of nighttime temperatures.

If a couple of nights dip below the desired temperature bring the plants in until conditions become desirable again.

The holiday cacti (the Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter cactus) can be left outside to experience the longer and cooler nights of late summer and fall until nighttime temperatures drop consistently below 50 degrees.

There have been some years when the plants have already set visible buds on the stems while they are still in the protected corner behind the garage.

We typically think of orchids as being sensitive to the cold when, in fact, several species are quite appreciative of cooler temperatures than our homes offer.

The very popular Phalaenopsis, or butterfly orchid, appreciates a light breeze and some cool evenings to about 55 degrees.

Once nighttime temperatures drop below 55 degrees bring the plant back indoors, provide bright light and fertilize with a balanced fertilizer every other week.

The Clivia will also benefit from some chilling. I leave mine out until temperatures dip below 50 degrees.

Once they are brought indoors I basically set them aside, in bright light and check on them once a month.

They have low water requirements in the winter and reward me with blooms based on this neglect.

Water is another component for success. For many, although not exclusively, a dry period in the winter is recommended. This is where understanding the native habitat of a plant comes in handy.

If you come from a place where it rains all summer and is dry all winter, then this is likely what you will prefer in someone's house in Kentuckiana.

Keep Clivia, Phalaenopsis and holiday cacti a bit on the dry side during the winter months.

Families can change; all things are possible with God

Nancy Kennedy

GRACE NOTES

One of the truly great inventions of the modern era is the DVR.

I love mine with all my heart, mind, soul and strength.

Last week I watched a movie I had recorded called "Sins of the Mother," about the relationship between a young woman and her formerly abusive, alcoholic mother.

Shay, the daughter, is a graduate student in Iowa and finds herself burnt out. She has a nervous habit of tearing out pieces of her hair, leaving bald patches on her scalp, which she keeps covered with a head scarf.

Her college advisor tells her she needs to take a year off. So, broke and with nowhere else to go, Shay drives home to Tacoma, Wash., to her mother's house, bringing with her 25 years' worth of pent-up anger and resentment toward her mother.

Meanwhile, during the years since Shay has been away at school, Shay's mother, Nona, joins AA, gets sober, gets a sponsor, gets a job — and gets pregnant. When Shay arrives, she meets Patty, a 5-year-old little sister she never knew she had.

Shay is furious. She's particularly angry because her mother has transformed from an abusive drunk into a lovely responsible woman. Her AA friends have nothing but wonderful things to say about Nona, but Shay refuses to believe that change is possible. She keeps waiting for her mother to revert back to the mother she always feared and hated.

As the movie progresses, Nona tries her hardest to make things right with her daughter, but Shay only wants to carry her grudges and bear her bitterness.

She observes her mother's odd habit of digging in her rose garden late at night. Finally she asks Nona what she's doing and Nona tells her she writes her prayers on pieces of paper and works them into the dirt. Eventually they become part of the soil from which beautiful flowers grow.

Over time Shay softens toward her mother and she starts going into the garden herself, burying her own prayers. On one piece of paper she's written "fear" and another, "forgiveness."

Nona invites Shay to church on the day she's giving testimony of her sobriety and life change. Shay thinks Nona will include a public apology to her, especially for the time when Shay was 13 and Nona took off for a week-long drunk. Terrified, Shay slept inside a closet every night.

But when Nona doesn't say what Shay wants her to say, she stands up and shouts, "Where were you?" Then right there in church the two of them lay all their hurts and shame and guilt and bitterness bare. But they don't reconcile. Shay won't accept Nona's apologies, even though Nona truly is sorry. Even though that's what Shay thought she wanted, it's not enough.

Shay runs out and moves in with a man she's been dating — and gets pregnant, just like her mother had done twice. Throughout the movie Shay's biggest fear is turning into her mother and passing down their family sins. She never wanted to have children and considers aborting this baby.

A lot of other stuff goes on in the movie, but to fast-forward: What brings Shay back to Nona is a fire set by one of Nona's AA friends, Ivy, who sets fire to Nona's rose garden. When Shay hears about it, she returns. Digging through the dirt of the once-beautiful rose garden, Shay finds dozens of pieces of paper all with her name on it. She realizes that, night after night, Nona has been praying for her.

Something breaks inside of Shay. She sees her mother differently, that she's not the monster she remembers her to be. She realizes her prayers have been answered, that she forgives her mother and that she's not afraid to bear the child she's carrying. She, too, is going to be a single mom like her mother, but hopefully she'll be like the mother Nona has become.

Nona tells Shay that she thinks she'll plant morning glories instead of roses, that morning glories grow even in the worst kind of dirt.

Shay's middle name is Glory.

The movie reminded me that some people say people don't really change, that families can't change, but they do. All things are possible with God, even the breaking of generational sins. Jesus truly does make all things new.

And sometimes the most beautiful and hardiest flowers grow in the worst kind of dirt, especially dirt that contains the most heartfelt prayers and watered by tears.

Seniors abandon team

Thorobreds host Highlands with depleted line up

By Mike Aldridge, Sports writer

The undefeated, top-ranked in 4A, Highlands Bluebirds are scheduled to roll onto the Hilltop at the Athletic Complex Friday night and it could hardly come at a worse time.

On Monday afternoon, the injury report for the Harrison County varsity football squad was quite extensive with shoulder, Achilles tendons, knee injuries and a couple of recovering concussion victims being the largest issues.

Three seniors also decided to abandon their teammates as they informed Coach Jim Carr of their decision that football was just too much for them on Monday afternoon.

This places the Harrison County football team and program in jeopardy for Friday night as the small squad may have to use freshmen to battle the powerful, veteran Bluebirds.

The remainder of Harrison County's schedule has some games which are within reach for a win, but the youthful squad, with only two seniors and Daniel Klapheke -- Elijah Gross will have some as well with left tough sledding and Covington Highlands Catholic along with 5A power Woodford County.

Freshmen team wins, beat Lions 30-6

On a much brighter note, the Harrison County freshmen traveled to Lewis County and brought home an impressive 30-6 win over the youthful Lions.

The young Thorobreds used a powerful effort from their linemen to march up and down the field to score by both running and passing the ball.

According to Coach Mark Jenkins, the Harrison County line was dominant on both sides of the ball against a large Lewis County group.

Brock Jenkins threw for three touchdowns to different receivers each time.

Harrison County opened the scoring with a Jenkins-to-Jovon Williams connection making the score 6-0 after the extra point failed.

Speedster Davonte Kenney ripped off a 60-yard run to score the next points on a reverse play.

Jenkins hooked up with Williams for the two-point

Senior Joe Thomas kicks high last week against St. Patrick. The Thorobreds return to LeBus Field tonight, after playing most of September at the Hilltop complex, for senior night.

Soccer Breds whip St. Patrick, fall at Bryan Station on Tuesday

By Mike Aldridge, Sports writer

Thursday night at the Athletic Complex the Harrison County Thorobreds soccer squad had its way with the St. Patrick Saints pounding the Maysville 11 by 8-1.

The St. Patrick team actually scored the first goal about 10 minutes into the contest as the Harrison County team was a little slow getting back to their positions.

This goal seemed to wake up a sleeping giant as the Breds buried goal after goal into the back of the net past the hapless St. Patrick goal keeper.

Logan Wiley led the way with three goals for the Thorobreds. Kyle Foster, Daniel Klapheke, Austin Moore, Grant Carr and Matt Mastin each scored one goal.

Foster had three assists while Mastin, Klapheke, Wiley, Joe Thomas, Cody Marshall and Brandon Watkins each added one.

Christian Carey was the goal keeper and he limited the visiting team to the one early goal.

The win makes the Harrison County record 7-5-1 while St. Patrick falls to 5-8-1.

A more focused Bryan Station squad handed the Thorobreds a 2-nil defeat Tuesday night in Lexington much to the disappointment of Coach Nick Hill.

"While we are not a physical team, we found contact tonight of any kind awarded the Defenders a free kick," he noted.

"We waited until we were two goals down and then we couldn't do enough to catch up. I don't feel like they are better than us, but they were more focused on the job tonight and willed themselves to win."

Bryan Station improves to 5-5-1 with the win while the Thorobreds fall to 7-6-1.

The next Thorobreds action will be Thursday night at LeBus Field when Senior Night festivities will take place.

The 8-6-3 Paris Greyhounds will provide considerable competition for the evening.

The varsity game begins at 5:30 p.m. with the Senior Night ceremonies afterwards. The junior varsity will kick off around 7:30 p.m. Seniors to be honored are Joe Thomas, Cody Honeycutt, Brandon Watkins, Kyle Foster, Ben Anness, Cody Marshall, Daniel Klapheke and Mathew Mastin.

Fillies roll past Deming, Bracken Co. as they prepare for district play

By Mike Aldridge, Sports writer

The 38th district is just around the corner and the Harrison County volleyball Fillies are working into shape to compete for the title.

The Fillies will host the district on Oct. 9 and 10 in the Hilltop gym.

Harrison County will face Pendleton County in the second match on Tuesday evening with the winner advancing to Wednesday night to face the Nicholas County vs. Deming winner at 7 p.m.

Thursday the Fillies traveled to Mt. Olivet and came away with a 3-1 win over the Lady Devils.

The Deming squad won the first set 18-25 before the Fillies rolled over them in the next three 25-18, 25-20 and 25-11.

On Tuesday night the Fillies returned home to face the Lady Bears of Bracken County.

Berea meet finds Harrison Co. short of runners

By Mike Aldridge, Sports writer

The Harrison County cross country team traveled to Berea Saturday with what turned out to be a partial squad at best as several of the teams' runners were not able to compete for one reason or another.

The runners who were able to participate did well for themselves as they each performed nicely, according to Coach Danny Simpson.

"Our student athletes have other commitments from time to time," he said. "But that is just an opportunity for others to step up and show what they can do."

Brook Frederick, who has been the most consistent runner for the Fillies' varsity, was the lone varsity girl in the meet this Saturday.

She had her best race of the season finishing the 5000M run in 25:44, which was 31st place. The winner of the varsity race for the girls was Nnoromele of Richmond Model in 21:11.

The varsity boys competed without their three top runners, but still finished ninth in the team competition.

Freshman Ross Smith medaled finishing 23rd in 19:22.

Steady Austin Short was 26th, Harry Smith 34th, Nathan Radford 78th and Josh Getting 79th to round out the Thorobreds scoring.

Fields of Madison Central won the 5000M event in 17:42.

Rachel Eckert had a spectacular 4000M race for the middle school girls finishing ninth in 18:38.

She was backed up by Abby Cooper who finished 28th and Jesse Petty who was 35th. The winner was from Beaumont Middle School who finished in 16:47.

Will Marsh was the pace setter for the middle school boys as he toured the 4000M course in 17:20. Daniel Craig also ran for the middle school and finished 35th.

The elementary girls' team finished fifth only five points out of fourth in the 1600M sixth grade and under event. Robin Roberts was the first Harrison County runner across the line finishing in 13th place in a time of 8:20. She was followed closely by Evie Barker (15th), Evie Hindbaugh (19th), Mackenzie Mosig and Anna Moran.

Johnson of Bourbon County won the race in 7:25.

Thomas Morris, Zach Getting and Jonah Case competed for the elementary boys, but did not compile a team score.

"I like the effort that we are getting in the races," beamed Coach Simpson. "We are getting stronger and in better condition. We are halfway through the schedule and we must keep our focus and compete."

The next event for the runners is the Capital View Classic in Frankfort on Saturday.

Mike's Minute

When the situation is difficult, what can we do?

Mike Aldridge
Sports Writer

There are often times situations that are very difficult without any solutions that are clear cut and apparent.

Harrison County's football program is facing such a situation this Friday night when they are to play host to the Highlands Bluebirds.

The Bluebirds are probably the second best team in Kentucky, no matter the class, only behind Trinity, who ranks in the top 10 nationally.

Highland's skill and talent is not the issue strangely enough, but the fact that they have 11 healthy seniors, juniors or sophomores to put out on the field is what sets them apart from the Thorobreds.

Harrison County has been beset again with injuries and will be fortunate to have 11 healthy upperclassmen to start the game Friday.

Injury problems only compound the already season-long saga of "players" quitting or not coming out at all.

The program has had a myriad of people who have quit on their own or have had a parent or other advisor insist that they leave the program.

Sometimes there may be legitimate reasons to leave a program, but I believe that unless a player is injured they should honor the commitment that they made to the coaches and the other teammates and stay until the season is over.

So the coaching staff now has to add the lack of back up players to the problem of being outmanned at every position.

The question becomes what do we do against Highlands?

I was critical of one of our neighboring county schools for deciding not to compete in the Highlands, Covington Catholic, etc. district and do not like the option of not playing against tough competition. But when the choice may become playing tremendously undersized athletes or freshmen on the line in Friday's game, I don't know what to suggest.

I do wish the players and coaches the best.

This situation is not the fault of the current coaches or the players who remain. I know that they will try hard and give it all they've got.

The middle school game on Thursday last week with Bourbon County featured two talented teams with exceptional size and ability for their age.

There was a big crowd on both sides of the Ingles Stadium field encouraging their team with a lot of noise and cheering.

I was a little concerned about the level of complaining and griping coming from the stands and in some cases the sidelines about the officials.

Most of the comments that I heard were results of ignorance of the rules and the mistaken opinion that three officials can see everything or that a spectator who is highly prejudiced will see plays the same way as a non-biased official.

I also was concerned about the lack of presence of people from law enforcement.

Maybe the school has to request that police are around for a highly emotional rivalry game and if that is the case the request should have been made.

The school administrators were on hand and making every effort to be a presence, but the potential for some real ugliness was there.

That is a sad statement for the fans of both teams though when a middle school game cannot be played without the appearance of the lack of civility.

Fillies Fall Fling this Saturday on the Hilltop, strongest field ever expected

Coach Bill Faulkner and the Harrison County volleyball Fillies will welcome 12 of the better teams that have ever participated in the Fillies Fall Fling to the Hilltop gym Saturday. There will be three flights with pool play beginning at 9 a.m. on Saturday.

The Fillies will open play at 9 a.m. in their pool with Williamstown (9-14). Other teams in the pool with the Fillies are Pikeville (19-7), Anderson County (16-11) and Fleming County (7-14).

The other pools are full of quality teams if not powerful ones. One of the pools has Marion County (22-4) of the Fifth Region, Ludlow (16-7) of the 9th Region and the 10th Region's Montgomery County (17-6) and Bracken County (11-13). The third pool features the highest rated team in the 38th District, Pendleton County (14-5) along with Powell County (15-2), Madison Southern (10-10) and Villa Madonna (11-5).

Pool play will continue through the 2 p.m. matches when the top pool finishers will square off for the championship rounds of the Fillies Fall Fling.

The Fillies sport regular season victories over Montgomery County, Fleming County, Madison Southern and Bracken County while they have lost to Powell County, Pendleton County and Villa Madonna.

Fillies golfers wrap up season with regional at Canewood

The Harrison County Fillies golf team wrapped up the season with the Central Kentucky Conference meet on Saturday at Kincaid Lake and then Monday's regional tournament on the Canewood Course in Georgetown.

Sarah Holland led the Fillies in both contests shooting an even 100 on Saturday as the Fillies finished eighth in the conference event. Sarah Durbin was second for the Fillies with a 114 followed by Kristen Aubrey, the squad's lone senior, with 121, and sophomore Morgan Nelly's 136. Grant County won the tournament followed by Mason County and George Rogers Clark.

The eighth grader Holland again led the Fillies on Monday evening as she toured the Canewood 18 holes with a 109. Freshman Sarah Durbin was again second for the Harrison County girls as she shot a 126. Aubrey and Nelly finished the scoring as the Fillies were 10th in this meet, which was won by Scott County with Mason County finishing as runners up.

Coach Jason Crisp noted the team's youth saying, "While we struggled this year, we only had one upper classman on the squad. If the girls will continue to work on their game we have some good young players who could be successful before they leave Harrison County High School."

Soccer Fillies continue improvement, win over St. Pat, Frankfort

Senior Randi Schweitzer scored four goals and Amelia Bolin, Haley Carr, Hannah Thomas and fellow senior Johnna Marshall each added one as the Fillies routed visiting St. Patrick 8-0 Wednesday at the Athletic Complex.

Marshall and Thomas also recorded assists in the game totally dominated by the Fillies. Goal Keeper Chelsea Ingram posted her seventh shutout of the season as when the St. Patrick team (4-8) could muster a shot, she rejected them.

"The girls are really working hard right now and are improving with each game," noted Coach Kim Jenkins. "They are focused on the task at hand and are preparing for the end of the season and the district."

That improvement continued Monday evening as the Fillies traveled to the state capital and rolled over and around the (7-6) Frankfort Lady Panthers.

Bolin, Carr, Thomas and junior Madelyn Judy each scored a goal in the convincing victory for the Fillies. Thomas added another assist and Ingram again made scoring a challenge for the opposition.

The win improves the Fillies season mark to 7-3-4 with a home game Wednesday with powerful Madison Central. The Lady Indians will bring a sparkling 12-2-1 record to LeBus Field Wednesday night for the battle with the Fillies.

Monday night will be Senior Night for the Fillies as they host Western Hills (4-5-3). Seniors Marshall and Schweitzer will be celebrated during the evening's action.

The final home game of the season will follow on Wednesday, Oct. 3, as the district rival Pendleton County Lady Cats visit LeBus Field.

This is Breast Cancer Awareness Night where the teams and many of the spectators will be wearing pink in recognition of the battle with this killer.

Again the Fillies started slowly, losing the first set 20-25 after being tied at 20 points each.

The Fillies then battled back in a close set, winning 25-21 to take the match to the third and final set of the evening.

This time the Fillies jumped out to a big lead and coasted in for the victory again at 25-21.

This score was much closer than the set actually was as the Fillies led by as many as 10 points during the contest.

"We hustled tonight and got a good win for our efforts," said Coach Bill Faulkner. "Both Bracken County and Deming are adept at digging the ball and we certainly had to work for our points in both matches."

Faulkner went on to point out that Bracken County is an intelligent team that could find a weakness and exploit it.

"They (Bracken County) are very good at keeping the ball in play and making you make a mistake," he added.

The wins improve the Fillies to 10-14 on the year while Deming is 9-9 and the Bracken County girls are 11-13.

The Harrison County freshmen team won in straight sets 17-12 and 18-16 while the Fillies junior varsity lost in straight sets 21-23 and 14-21.

The Fillies next travel to Richmond on Thursday to face the 11-14 Madison Central Lady Indians before returning on Saturday for the Fillies Fall Fling.

conversion making the Harrison County lead 14-0 still in the opening period.

The visitors scored again in the next period when Jenkins hit Kenney with a 70-yard touchdown bomb and Leon Commodore grabbed a Jenkins toss for the conversion to make the lead 22-0 at the half.

Commodore scored again in the second half on a 20-yard pass from Jenkins and Justice Moore ran the conversion into the end zone for the final Harrison County score.

Lewis County scored late making the score at the end of the game 30-6 in favor of Harrison County.

The win gives the freshmen a 2-3 record with the next game on Monday, Oct. 1, on Lawson Field at Ingles Stadium against Fleming County.

In Harrison County Middle School action Thursday night both the 7th and 8th grade teams went down to defeat at the hands of the Bourbon County Middle School.

The seventh graders lost by a 38-6 score though the defense did not give up any points. The Bourbon County team scored on pass interceptions and recovered fumbles for the win.

The eighth grade team suffered its first loss of the year 20-14 in overtime to the undefeated Bourbon County squad.

Dalton Moore scored first for Harrison County in the first quarter as the Colts took a 6-0 lead.

Bourbon took the lead at the half at 8-6 and then with just less than seven minutes left in the game, expanded it to 14-6 before Malcolm Walker took off on a 62-yard touchdown run and Moore scored the conversion to send the game into overtime.

Bourbon County scored on the fourth down of the first possession in the extra session and the Colts went to the air to score but were unsuccessful as they fell to 4-1.

The Colts hit the road on Thursday as they travel to Winchester to face Conkwright Middle School.
